MAY TURN OUT TOBE IMPORTANT ARREST

Moses Gray, a Negro Awaiting Trial on the Charge of Housebreaking.

Justice John had several preliminaries before him yesterday, but the big bout was that of Moses Gray, a negro, charged with housebreaking. The case was not gone into, owing to the continued indisposition of Mrs. C. W. Grady, the principal witness, but was continued to next

The story is to the effect that the necused entered the bedroom occupied by Mrs. Grady, No. 513 North Third Strb t. last Thursday night. She heard some one in the room, and thinking it was her husband coming home from work, she spoke. In a moment a match was struck, and she heheld a negro. He commanded her to keep quiet, but she sprang from the bed, shrieked, and then fainted. The negro ran away.

Mrs. Grady was found by other persons in the room and medical attention was given.

Policeman Polteaux was given the case, Policeman Policeaux was given the case, He got a description of the negro, and yesterday morning had him in court.

Mrs Grady could not appear, but Detective-Captain Tomilisson and Officer Policeaux took the negro to her room, made him go through the same performance of lighting the match, and when Mrs. Grady saw him she again fainted, so perfect was the picture.

The negro says he can prove an alibitat he spent that night on Church Hill with a woman named Susje.

The destruction of the steamer was swift indeed. At no time was there any chance of saving her from an unsightly ruin. The shell was mostly of white pine, light and dry as proverbial powder, and while not explosive, was almost as inflammable. It was all thickly covered with paint and oils and pretty havoe did the crackling flames play through the dainty

The Pocahontas came to her wharf from her Norfolk trip last evening about 7:15 o'clock. The frieght was at once removed and the crew, consisting of officers, sailors and deck hands were gone by 9 o'clock. All live in Richmond, and naturally did not tarry on the steamer after their work was done. Two or three men were was done. Two or three men were on board, but none near the place at which the fire was first seen. Whether the blaze started in the engine room or in the kitchen just in the rear of the engine room it not known and probably never will be. Just how it started is equally uncertain. The watch-man on the wharf, Mr. Grant, says when he first saw the fire it was bursting out of the engine room doors. It did not look very dangerous just then, but a few minutes later it was sweeping everything before it. The alarm was turned in from two boxes, No. 53, Main and Nicholson Streets, by Sergeant Bailey, and No. 12, Main and Ash, by Mr. Lagle, who has a saloon nearby. Sergeant Bailey says that when he first saw the blaze it looked not larger than a man's hat. The response by the Richmond Fire Department was ample and the men worked with all their "might and main" to save what they could. The first burst of flames made a striking picture and attraced people in every part of the

The Pocahontas was built for the Virginia Navigation Company in 1883 by Harian and Hollingworth, of Wilmington, Del. She was a prize boat from the start. She was handsomely furnished and the appointments were of an exceptional character. The Pocahonias had been the pride of both presidents of the Navigation Company in recent years—Major A. H. The cost of the Pocahontas, exclusive of her furnishings was $150,000. But this includes the steel hull, which was not damaged. There is little doubt that the steamer will be permanently replaced until she can be raised and rebuilt. Plans will be begun as soon as possible for raising the vessel and getting her to a dry dock.

The Pocaloutas was 205 feet long, 54 feet broad, and 14 depth of hold. The fastest speed which was ever recorded to her credit was no less than twenty-two miles outside of the Virginia Capes. Mr. Weisiger was on board and testifies to the unusual feat.

The burning of the Pocaloutas will be news of a most unwelcome kind to the people of Richmond. Hardly is there a persoh in the city limits who has not partaken of the pleasures and comforts of trips on her. Her elegance and speed have often been subjects of comment by those who had no other interest in her tham the pleasure derived therefrom. Doubtiess thousands will visit her wharf to-day and behold the dual wreck of fire and water.

EHAN HAI KWAN, April 39-7 F. M.—
The reports of a big battle on the Yalu River have been given considerable sunstantiation by information brought in by four Danish missionaries who have just strived here from New Chwang.
When these missionaries left An Tung, ten days ago, the Russians in that vicluity numbered thirty thousand men and occupied strongly fortified position between An Tung and the Au River, which empties into the Yalu River about twenty miles northeast of An Tung. There also were small Russian forces at Heu Yen and Feng Huan Cheng, where bases had been established. Those two places are respectively about sixty-five and forty-five miles to the northwest of An Tung The Russians along the railroad line, according to the missionaries, were burning bean cakes, endeavoring, with some success, to prevent the export of this product.

Yalu River.

(MASHINGTON, D. C., April 30.—Reports have reached the State Department, the sources of which the officials do not care to divulge, to the effect that a great battle has been fought on the Yalu River, resulting in a complete Japanese victory.

Details are unobtainable. The State Department's advices place the scene of the Japanese crossing of the Yalu at Chin Tien Cheng, a town on the Manchurian side of the river, which, it is reported, was finally captured by the Japanese.

churian side of the river, which, it is reported, was finally captured by the Japanese.

The date of the battle is stated to have been last Tucsday, and the delay in receiving the news is ascribed to the absence of telegraph facilities in this remote quarter of Manchuria.

The Japanese legation here has no news confirming these reports, but the matter has aroused intense interest official circles. Reports which have from time to time reached the Washington government from its agents in the field indicated that the two great armies would not come in touch before May ist, and that what has heretofore occurred was nothing more than mere quipost skirmishes and collisions between scouting parties. It is believed now, however, that the weather conditions in Manchuria have improved sufficiently to facilitate the movements of troops and artillery, and that the two vanguards have consequently come together a few days in advance of the expected date.

Officials There Think Reported Japanese Victory Could Not Have Taken Place.

(By Associated Press.)

ST. PETERSBURG, April 20, 11:59 P. M.
The reported big Japanese victory on the Yalu River is pronounced here to be impossible, unless the Japanese chose to interpret their practically unimpeded passage of the river as a great victory. As the Russians have little more than observation outposts, with a few guns, to harass the crossing of the Japanese, anything beyond skirmishing is declared by a member of the general staff to have been out of the question.

Liao Yang is connected by wire with the headquarters of the general commanding the outposts, and it is presumed that the commander would report immediately any incident of importance, but the latest information of skirmishing is covered in a statement issued by the general staff tonight. LONDON, April 93, 5:13 P. M.—The Japanese legation up to the present has received no confirmation of the reported important engagement between the Japanese and Russian forces on the Yalu River, but the officials think it quite probable. The main body of the Japanese army is believed to have traversed the mountain passes and crossed the Yalu a hundred miles from the sea, with the object of taking the Russian forces near the mouth of the river in the rear. The legation is of the opinion that the Japaneses operations at the mouth of the Yalu were merely in the nature of a feint.

"Peruna is not only a remedy for catarrhal troubles, but equally as effective for colds and aches arising from the same, it is a most excellent tonic for debilitated systems. Many of my friends have used it successfully and I have no hesitation in giving it my recommendation."—Almont Barnes.

Hazard Wheeler, Lieut. Col. Logan Command, U. V. U., No. 2, Department of the Potomac, in a letter from No. 20 K St., N. E., Washington, D. C., writes:

"Your preparation of Peruna as a tonic and as a catarrh remedy has been a boon to all those suffering from debility and the various forms of catarrhal diseases. Experience from actual use enables me to give this testimonial of its successful curative qualities."

HAZARD WHEELER.

HAZARD WHEELER.

Chronio catarrh often makes its approach in disguise. Before a person knows it, he may become a victim of chronic catarrh. Its onset may be gradual, its development insidious, but at last the victim finds himself hi the chitches of a tenacious disease. A slight cold, a tendency to sneeze, a puffiness in the nose and head, fullness or cracking in the cars, stringy mucous in the throat, slight cough or wheeziness, snoring during sleep; any one of these symptoms should be regarded as a warning.

Peruna is the remedy for catarrh. Almost everybody knows that by hearsay and thousands know it by experience.

Ex-Judge Phil. Lucas, of Missouri, writes from 130 East Capitol Street, Washington, D. C., as follows: "I have tried a bottle of Peruna and am still taking it with the best of results. I regard it as a very powerful tonic and renovator of the system."—Phil. Lucas.

What can be cured in the beginning in a week or two by using Peruna, if allowed to become chronic, may require months of faithful treatment. You had better take Peruna now for by and by you may be obliged to take it for some time in order to get well.

Hon. James M. Morgan, 1739 20th Street, Washington, D. C., who is ex-lieutenant U. S. Navy, ex-lieutenant Confederate Navy and ex-Consul-General to Australia, writes, "Tho use of your Peruna as a remedy or eure for catarrh by many of my friends, who have been benefited by the same, as well as my own experience as to its afficacy and good tonic properties, causes me to recommend it to all persons,"—James M.
